WHAT sickly and silly sentimentalists! Here we are members of the Democratic Congressional Committee and Senator FAULKNER of West Virginia in a dreadful state of mind because the Free-traders of London invited Representative WILSON, Chairman of the Democratic Committee of Ways and Means, to a grand banquet. The courtesy appears to people on this side a cheap way of paying a big debt, says the New York Tribune, and yet in its fashion an honest and manly way. Chairman WILSON has served the British industries and British commerce better than any other man in this country for the last thirty years, except President CLEVELAND, and the President does not happen to be in London and within range of honors or social courtesies. Mr. Wilson is there, and in some respects recently published has graciously informed his British friends that the fight for Free-trade on this side has only just begun, and that he and his party mean to do a great deal better than they yet have done in the way of promoting British instead of American industries. It would have been shabby in the last degree if such distinguished performance and such gratifying promise had not been thought worthy of recognition.

The trouble with the Democratic Congressional Committee and with Senator FAULKNER is that they have been trying to deserve something and Chairman WILSON lets the cat out of the bag. They have been pretending in some parts of the country, and especially in the mining regions of West Virginia, that the Democratic Congress and its Chairman WILSON have earned many gratitudes by Protecting American industries, utterly in contempt of Democratic pledges. Duties on iron and coal remain, though Chairman WILSON and the Democratic Home did their best, or pretended to do their best, to get Free-trade in both. It is true that the duties are only about half those imposed by the Republican Tariff, and foreign competition is felt already in the depression of wages, and is sure to be felt in all the Atlantic states, if not further inland, when business revives enough to give mine operators or mine workers a chance to get a decent living. But the Democrats have found it convenient to say that these duties on coal and iron ore were graciously retained by the Democrats in the Senate, and that other partially protective duties on glass, manufacturers of iron and steel, and manufacturers of cotton and wool were in the same way retained.

It is when the Democrats are engaged in befuddling voters to the best of their ability, and pretending to be Protectionists in the mines and Free-traders on the cotton plantations, that Chairman WILSON recklessly consented to be blinded and dined by the British Free-traders in honor of his great services. One must admit that it is trying for the committee, but would not have been if the committee had not tried to cheat anybody. Had the plain truth been told in every part of the country alike, it had been made known that Chairman WILSON of West Virginia agreed to take off all duties from iron and coal in the House, with the private understanding that two Democratic Senators might then get the credit of putting them back, at least in part, possibly the Free-traders might not have been so enthusiastic over Mr. Wilson, and the voters of West Virginia, if a little disgusted, might not have been so angry.

The Wilson Tariff was for the benefit of British industries and trade, nevertheless, and if it did not go as far as some greedy manufacturers on the other side desired, it went far enough to close 40 per cent. of the iron producing works in this country. For so much Britons are properly grateful, and they rejoice the more to be assured that the struggle has only begun, and that Free-traders in this country have far grander victories for Great Britain yet in store. The only question is whether the voters of West Virginia will greet the victory in the past, and the other victories promised for the future, with an enthusiasm equal to that which welcomed Mr. Wilson at the London banquet.

REVENGE. Was the Real Cause—Neither a Madman nor a Friend?—Capt. Bass, Booth's Brother, Friend, Was Hanged.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 6.—From time there have been hints that there was a motive for John Wilkes Booth's assassination of President Lincoln, and that the motive was revenge. A strange story, now told for the first time, is that these hints were well founded. It is said that Booth's horrid crime was not simply the work of a madman, but was commited because of the execution under military law of his friend, Capt. Beall. of the confederate guard, who was recently released from Dr. George A. Foote, of Warrenton, N. C., a well-known physician who was in the confederate service as a surgeon, and who was for a long time a prisoner at Ft.
Columbus, New York harbor. Here is the strange part of the story, as told by Dr.
Foote, who was interviewed here.
Capt. Beall was a noted confederate officer, and was so quick and so secret in his movements that he was a terror to the federal government and near New York. He figured in famous St. Albans raids in 1863-64, and his exploits at that time gave him a sort of romantic sound in the south, while he caused consternation among the enemy by his daring. But he was soon captured, and his secret service work had drawn away from Gen.
Grant's Army of the Potomac 20,000 men to garrison the border states, which Beall and his followers had caused.

Beall was tried by court-martial at Ft. Monroe, Va., and was sentenced to be hanged as a spy, though it was considered that he was no spy, but a brave and open foe. Efforts to save his life were made by many persons, among them the distinguished Gen. Andrew A. Humphreys, of Massachussetts, but to no purpose.

John Wilkes Booth had been a colleague roommate of Beall, and they were in every way the most devoted of friends. Booth tried in every possible manner to secure Beall's escape from the guard, and kept in communication with him. He was captured in December, 1864, constantly in the winter of 1864, and kept in communication with his friends, and was terribly scratched as if he had tried to climb the thorn bushes at the foot of which his clothing laid.
Booth was a bartender and had been taking the gold cure. It is supposed to have caused him and he wandered off and died in his madaces.

SESSIONAL INCIDENT at a Political Meeting.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Oscar Duranti, a member of the Italian delegation to the club, narrowly escaped assassination at the hands of Radefoli Bertoldi, a fellow member of the association.

Duranti was making a speech at a political meeting at DeKoven and Jefferson streets, when Bertoldi, who was in the audience, suddenly fired at the speaker, the bullet just passing above his head.

Bertoldi was knocked down with a shot by a spectator and escaped. The meeting came to an abrupt end. The police are searching for Bertoldi.

A Gold Cure Victim.

PORTLAND, Ind., Oct. 8.—Desmond Shockley, who disappeared from home last Tuesday night, was found dead two miles south of town along the river, Sunday afternoon, by two boys.

He was nearly nude and his limbs were terribly scratched as if he had tried to climb the thorn bushes at the foot of which his clothing laid.

Shockley was a bartender and had been taking the gold cure. It is supposed to have caused him and he wandered
off and died in his madaces.

Chairman Wilson Arrives in New York.

N. Y., Oct. 8.—After a stormy passage the American Senator Chairman Wilson has arrived at her dock in this city.

He was received with a friendly salute from the passengers, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould and family, Congressman Isidor Straus, Henry Abby,
A. C. Gandy, George Phillips, W. L. Wilcox, W. H. Williams, Oscar Chapman, Philadelphia, and many other well known people.

Dr. Foote, completely bold in appearing at the guard, was passed by the guard as he was, and the guard was surprised at the speed with which he passed.

The next plan was to get the guard off guard, and that was done, and the guard was then sent on to the prison.

This was done by Capt. Beall, who had been captured without delay.

As soon as Beall discovered through Dr. Foote's constant observations of all that went on, he made his bluff, if informed by one of the guards, that there was no chance of escape for Capt.

Beall went to Washington, and on the 1st of October, President Lincoln and Secretary Seward were arrested at least, respite Beall. Lincoln agreed to respite, and Beall at once telegraphed the joyful news to Beall's mother, who was in Brooklyn, N. Y.
But she very quickly got word that she must receive a telegram order to return to New York, and she did.

KNOCKED THEM OUT.

Eli Perkins Confuses a Lot of Hand-some Yale Graduates.

A party of handsome Yale graduates were on the train talking about the marvels of our Savior.

"All huzzah!" said one. "Who would believe anything that could not be understood or explained?"

"All stuff and nonsense!" said the base ball catcher.

"You say, boys, you wouldn't believe anything that couldn't be explained or understood?" I said.

"Of course not," replied the young agnostic.

"Well," I said, "I saw a thousand plants and flowers growing in a garden. One plant made sugar and one made acid. The same soil made all the colors—yellow, blue, red, green and other symphonies. Do you believe that?"

"Why, yes," they said.

"Can you explain it?"

"No," and then they looked at each other.

"And I saw pigs, geese, sheep and cows eating grass—do you believe that?"

"Of course."

"But this grass, after digestion, turned to feathers on the geese, to wool on the sheep, to bristles on the pig and to hair on the cow. It turned into a resplendent rainbow on the peacock. Do you believe that?"

"Certainly," they replied.

"But do you understand it—can you explain these miracles?"

The boys were confounded and silent. I had a "touchdown" on them.

"And still many of you boys believe Professor Summer's miracles. You believe him when he says that Tariff has nothing to do with wages. Some of you believe the miracle that with Free-trade a Nation with high wages can ship kales and silk and machinery to a low wage country and pay the freight. Some of you believe with Professor Summer that with Free-trade you can buy things cheap in Europe and still make them in America."

Then the boys leaned their foreheads against the tips of their fingers and tried to think. They thought deeper than the Professor. Finally the "first-base" said: "You can't fool a Freshman with such a silly miracle as that."

The electric thrill of health is never felt by those who are run down—out of sorts—poor in blood—badly nourished—dyspeptic. That would be impossible, and so the delight of living is lost!

Brown's Iron Bitters

brings weak people up to a standard of health—feeds the blood—acts on the nerves—strengthens the muscles. It brings the blush of youth to the face of the aged—restores the invalid—refreshes and revives life in the aged—nourishes the weak, pangs, child-birth, said, it gives strength, and strength to the heart without perfect health. It is a necessity in every family. It does not injure the teeth or cause constipation.

It's Brown's Iron Bitters you need!
